Kelly—Audibert

The marriage of Mr. Bernard E. Kelly and Miss Leontine Theresa Audibert was solemnized at the Sacred Heart Church on Tuesday, July 6th. Ideal weather prevailed and the church, which was tastefully decorated with beautiful flowers was filled almost to capacity by the numerous friends of the happy couple.

Both the bride and groom are well known in this district, and are held in the highest esteem by all their friends.

Since his arrival here in the fall of 1912, Mr. Kelly has made a wide circle of friends and business acquaintances and his popularity with all who know him is unbounded. His ready wit is the delight of his friends, and we feel sure that it played an important part in the captivation of his charming bride.

Miss Leontine Theresa Audibert, who is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Audibert of Excal, was attired in a neat blue-travelling suit. The customary phrase "the blushing bride and the bashful bridegroom," so dear to our wedding reporter would be quite in-

The Union Pic-nic at Sibbald

The first annual U. F. A. Union Pic-nic was held at Sibbald with all the enthusiasm and patriotism that befit the day and the event. In spite of a somewhat cold wind prevalent all day, the picnic was a success. The trolleyman, Mr. Maurice Culver, states that close on a thousand people came to Sibbald to celebrate.

On the roads from Alton and Oyen, continuous streams of large and small autos, single and double buggies, ox teams and wagons, poured into the little town, until the picnic grounds were alive with a happy and contented crowd.

One of the most exciting events of the day was the Prize Baby show, which was held in Mr. Bull's new store. All kinds and conditions of babies were entered, and the judges, who do not wish their names to be known, had to listen to some very hostile criticism from the disappointed mothers. Personally we do not think the judges knew anything about their business, or they would have given all the babies a prize. They were all good looking babies, and they all resembled their mothers.

The excellent crop conditions, good price prospects, and the substantial cash prizes offered for sporting events, all contributed to put the necessary "pep" into the feelings of the holiday makers. Everybody wore a smile that would become off, and the first annual Union picnic ranks as one of the most successful events of the season on the Goose Lake line.

The following is the list of some of the more important items on the program—1st. 100 yds. dash for men—1st. Robt. 2nd. Nave. 3rd. Culver. Boy's Race—1st. R. Gugin. 2nd. E. Fredericksen. 3rd. G. Shuman.

MASTERS OF BRITAIN

RECORD UNEQUALLED IN PAST ACHIEVEMENTS

Has Kept in Seclusion the Boasted German Navy, and Enabled the World-Wide Commerce of Great Britain and her Allies to go on Without the Slightest Interruption

The splendid record of the British navy since the declaration of war, must command the unqualified admiration of all who give it due consideration. The operations of the magnificent fleet in the North Sea under the command of Admiral Jellicoe have not been of a spectacular nature, but they have proved thoroughly effective. Although every officer and man in that fleet has been longing for an opportunity to try conclusions with the German navy in a decisive battle, the fulfilment of that wish has been deferred to maintain the most difficult of all war tasks—the protection of our sea-lanes. Day after day, week after week, month after month, in all sorts of weather, the strain has never been relieved for a moment day or night, incessant vigilance has been maintained, one mis-step or the slightest relaxation of that perpetual watchfulness might have afforded the enemy opportunity to port to port, and the world's commerce would have been in jeopardy. Throughout these many months, however, the British fleet has played its part in the defence of the sea with remarkable effectiveness. These coasted modern navies, which so many expected many years of later would have been the mainstay of the world's commerce, have proved themselves to be the most effective of the world's commerce, and the most effective of the world's commerce, and the most effective of the world's commerce.

German Toy Trade Crippled by the War

Why Italy Fights

A New Age is Battling With the Old, and Must Change It or Perish

Austria made no case which justified her action. Germany had no case which could stand for a moment in a court of law, and the great aim of civilized mankind has already found it wanting. Those countries responsible to the people, forced the war upon the world, while the government of Italy would have been neutral if it could. But the popular instinct overrode it. The masses must have gone down had it without any passionate appeal. The masses must have gone down had it without any passionate appeal. Nothing short of all nations can effectually pledge the world to peace: for if only half dozen of the stronger ones took the pledge their final resource for making it effectual would be to fight whoever broke the peace.

It is significant that British newspapers generally displayed no exuberant jubilation over Italy's entry into the fray: for as the war stands it is a contest of fabricated steel and of credit rather more than men. That, of course, is why the Allies' lawful advantage in procuring shrapnel, powder, rifles and credits in the United States is so irritating to Germany.

Prohibition Campaign

To the Editor of the Oyen News,
Dear Sir:—

We would like to have the opportunity to refer, in the columns of your valuable paper to the methods that are being employed in the present Prohibition Campaign. The material published and the reports circulated show that the Liquor Interests have nothing good to say about the traffic so they are devoting their energies to circulating misrepresentation and false statements about the proposed Liquor Act. The Liquor Traffic is a discredited institution and is fighting for its existence. It does not fight in the open and because it has no reputation to lose it works in the dark and with weapons of darkness.

It is said that this Act does not mean Prohibition, that the sale of liquors will simply be taken from the hotels and transferred to Drug stores and other places. Listen to what the Licensed Victualler's Association says in a letter addressed to one of the wholesale Dealers: "I solicit your financial assistance in our fight against 'Total Prohibition in Alberta.' We ask your financial support in 'this life and death struggle of the trade in the Province.' Hundreds of thousands of dollars are being used and high salaried agents are employed to deceive the people."

The Temperance people have prepared this Act. They are not afraid of it. Our Local Committee are willing to meet any representatives of the Liquor Traffic on the public platform, to discuss either the virtues of the Licensed System or the merits of the Liquor Act. We will moreover donate one hundred dollars to anyone who can show that the Proposed Act allows any vendor, dealer, druggist or any other person anywhere within the province to sell liquor to anyone in Alberta for beverage purposes.

The law of the province cannot prevent export or import trade and does not profess to. No excuse can be given for intelligent men to mistake or mistake the provisions of the Act. A vote for the "Liquor Act" means a vote for Prohibition.

Read the Act for yourself. Anyone can secure a copy from the Secretary, F. J. Whitlock. Thanking you for this privilege we are

Yours sincerely,
B. F. Fox, President,
F. J. Whitlock, Sec'y-Treas.

It may not be known to all that when the petitions for submission of the Liquor Act were signed last fall, Acadia Constituency headed the list with 60 per cent. of the number of votes cast at the last Provincial election. Nanton came second with 67 per cent.

According to the Calgary "Albertan," the people of Nanton, in a recent Convention, expressed the hope of heading the polls on July 21st. The supporters of the "Liquor Act" in our local constituency are anxious that Acadia should still maintain the premier place and obtain the added honour of giving the largest majority for Prohibition in the Province.

Mr. Robt. Smith's residence on 24th Ave. E. is nearing completion.

appropriate in the present case, as we have never before seen a couple who went through the service with such easy grace and lack of embarrassment.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Audibert assisted the bride and groom through the ceremony which was conducted by the Rev. Father Dargan.

The vocal work of Mr. James Thomson and a choir was much appreciated by those present, as was a violin solo ably rendered by Mr. D. C. Burkholder.

Following the wedding service, a celebration of Holy Mass was held, after which the bride and groom received the congratulations of their many friends before leaving for the home of the bride's mother where a quiet reception of their more intimate friends was held.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelly, who were the recipients of numerous handsome presents, left the following morning for Starnis, Ont., where they will visit the bridegroom's parents.

Zebu Beef in France.

French colonial authorities have inaugurated a serious attempt to introduce in the French market the zebu of Madagascar as a substitute for beef, says the Scientific American. The first batch of a dozen carcasses sold in the Paris stalls brought the price of the highest grades of cattle. Herds of zebu, otherwise known as Indian oxen, which have been threatened with extermination, are now being rapidly restored, and probably 4,000,000 head roam the plateaus of Madagascar. The meat of the zebu is said to be savory and nutritious and is equal to beef.

Electric Steel Furnaces.

An article in Le Globe Citien states that seventy-eight electric furnaces now exist in the steel works of the world, of which thirty-five are on the induction and forty-three on the arc principle. Fourteen are Kjeldin furnaces, eleven Siemens, ten Hochling-Rodenhauer, three Elektrometall sooty (Sweden) and one each Colby, Hloch, Kohler, Schneider and Waltham. There is a steady and marked tendency to increase the capacity of these furnaces, some of those already constructed being as much as eight to ten tons.

Will break any firm. We have no get-rich-quick schemes to offer you. We are not running a gift enterprise and we give you no chance in a lottery. But we are selling reliable goods at a price which is right. If you want a local dealer to stay with you to supply your requirements don't make, or try to make a sucker of him for the sharks to gobble up, and then hand you what is coming to you when you get into deep water. It is more profitable to retain an old customer than to look for a new one. If your treatment at our hands is not perfectly satisfactory, let us know and we will correct it. If it is satisfactory, give us the pleasure of serving you again.

Matt pondered a moment and then inquired, "Are you fixer?"

"Yes, sir."

"Will you please give me your message?"

"My young lady wishes to do a very foolish thing," said Fletcher, with a disapproving frown of her mouth.

"She wants you to run away with her tomorrow morning. You are to get a carriage, or better, an automobile and pick her up tomorrow morning at 4 o'clock, at the Fair Oaks entrance."

"Precisely. I shall have packed a small trunk and have it ready to go."

"And all next day I will inform her father that she is ill and cannot be disturbed. By this means you reach Middleborough without being met and get married, and then take the train to New York."

"You will travel to San Francisco, and there you stay, till the opportunity arises to go to that place where you have a friend—a very rich, quiet man."

"Without once seeing her father?"

"Yes, Matt," said Fletcher, with a smile. "She says it must be so or not at all."

"You must," said Fletcher, with a smile. "She says it must be so or not at all."

"Matt made a hasty calculation. He had assumed a hundred dollars. But with Chris' $50 would easily get him to California, with some more."

"Yes," said Fletcher, with a smile. "She says it must be so or not at all."

live it. "Oh, she rose, and going to the window, looked out."

"Oh, Matt, there he is now!" she cried. "Come over here."

But Matt was too late; the man had disappeared in the direction of a saloon.

Matt had intended to go to Sneed & Harvey's, and then to the police station, but the plan of their outrageous conduct, now that he was so settled, his position was unassailable. If they could not force him to go, he would not go.

He did not have to go—he could threaten them with the police and prove them to the wall. But the situation of such a course grew more and more apparent. It would be tantamount to announcing his arrival to his father with unfavourable dangers and consequences.

Sneed & Harvey were put in a blustering mood. They had heard of Matt's coming, and they were sure that he would not go.

Pleased to Find that It Was a Good Dime at That

The man with the unshakeable thirst stood hesitating on the sidewalk, nervously fingering a lone dollar bill. He glanced once or twice at the government liquor store window, which had been shored off its teeming array of bottles and stood bare and naked as emblematic of the government treasury. After a few moments he summoned up his courage and plunged into the store. In a flash his trepidation vanished for instead of the uniformed official with gold laced cap and shining epaulettes that he had pictured there stood a plain clothed citizen, a man with whom he had done business and one who had, with him, long appreciated the principles of the Grand Liberal party of Saskatchewan.

"Give me a pint of government whiskey," he said, with a nonchalant air.

"Nothing doing Jim," said the dispenser, we have only the quarts. Take a smart home oil can. A pint went last you long," he added, with a most ungenerous emphasis on the "you."

"Only got a dollar," was the reply. "Buy you the balance on Monday."

"Watchbook! we're running," said the dispenser with a touch of what the best seller calls "hauteur." "This isn't a common saloon, this a government office, Git."

"I ain't got mad, old man," continued the visitor. "Have a cigar."

Pique was turning to contempt, disdain and downright peevishness, as the government official said firmly—
"I repeat sir this is a government office. The government of Saskatchewan does not allow smoking during office hours. I don't mind joining in half a slab of chewing gum, however, if you have it handy," the dispenser said, relenting. "Following the illustrious habits of our leaders in the cabinet that new thetic custom is generally commended."

"Well, what can I buy in this joint for a dollar, anyway," the visitor said with little respect for the august representative of the Saskatchewan booze distribution system.

"Try a dozen bottles of beer at 90 cents and keep a dime change to buy candy for the little ones at home," replied the dispenser, unwilling to miss up the opportunity in getting in a word for the elevating influence of the new law.

"A' right! wrap 'em up," repeated the thirsty one.

"Pardon me, sir, what is your name and address," queried the government official, as he brought a huge ledger into play.

"Don't you want to know the maiden name of my great grandmother and whether my uncle ever had chicken pox?" said the vulgar intruder, trying to be facetious.

"Again, I must repeat, sir that this is not a low down saloon. This is a branch of the Saskatchewan—"

But he of the unshakeable thirst had turned red and fled. When he gained the sidewalk he bit savagely on the ten cent piece he had received in change.

"Well, I'll be god darned," he said, "I'm blowed if it isn't a good one!" Saskatoon Star.

In the evening, Mr. Fred Bohannon presided at a dancing held in Ball's hall, and in a few well chosen words, introduced Mr. J. A. McColl of Colbourne, and Mr. Stuart of Edmonton. These gentlemen delivered instructive addresses on "The Liquor Act." Mr. McColl also touched on other topics relative to his regime as member for this district.

A fitting climax to the days enjoyment, was dance at night in Ball's Hall. Over one hundred couples danced until the early hours of the morning.

Mention must be made of the Oyen Town Band and the University Orchestra. These musical organizations did much to make the picnic the great success it turned out to be.
